

DOLPHINSEE

An shards ah time we ere a swimmin' in kurrants deeper thun thay seem

If ya sea pysst the bracken gloss, umpteen kuns, toxic resins & micro-trash strange questions surface
such az

How kun we move through the waters
ah kreation mure kleanly
'n swim with lightness 'n speede?

Grate dolphins
alrody knuw tha answers:
observe thim klosely
ta learn ah light
ness, art & speede

Edukrate those lacking fins err
smooth dynamicks - eventually all will muuv gracefully

Soo: (yawning) Dis dolphin looks like a bird.

Jules: (scratching his head) . . . so do some people!

Andrei: (ignoring the conversation) Too often dolphins are seen as rival predators or alternative protein sources.

Philyra: I know. Isn't this what happens when we see things merely as commodities?

Ellesha: It goes deeper – don't we sometimes see each other that way?

- T Newfields

Beg. 2000 Nagoya / Fin.: 2023 Yokohama

