

DESTINATIONS:

Some Thoughts on Long-Distance Travel

Linda : Well, our whole existence is a warp-bubble.

Lex : (nodding) Hmm. The spaceships of our minds might have hyper-spatial drives, but spacesuits of our bodies are fragile.

Linda : Don't worry – we only need imagination to travel . . . it's possible to go anywhere through thought.

Ron : (shaking his head) Eh? What delusion! If you examine history closely, you'll see how various people who have claimed to travel afar – each offering contradictory claims about different beings.

Lis : Well, perhaps they went to different places?

Tim : (winking mischievously) Or perhaps they looked through different lenses?

- T Newfields

Beg.: 2001 in Shizuoka / Fin.: 2022 in Yokohama

