

POST NUCLEAR HOLOCAUST: Envisioning a Post-Human Future Scenario

Frida: (puzzled) I see a barren planet . . .

Ying: Yeah, someday this earth may become that way.

Dmiritri: It's painful to think about what we may do to our planet.

Satoru: (clearing his throat) Whimpering has no value! We live in a probabilistic universe. Not all outcomes have to happen, but given enough time in highly complex systems almost any outcome will eventually occur.

- T Newfields [Nitta Hirou / Huáng Yuèwǔ]
Begun: 2001 in Nagoya, Japan/ Finished: 2018 in Yokohama, Japan

